WINS AWARD!

Merritt C. Horning, Chico, California, first person in the state to win a scholarship under the plan recently announced by Montgomery Ward. He has chosen Pacific Union College as his school.

Horning Gets Ward's California Scholarship

Has Been Working On Plan Since Last Fall

Merritt Horning, assistant advertising manager of the CHRONICLE, was recently awarded a distinction by Montgomery Ward and Co., for his successful effort in their scholarship plan.

DESPATCH FROM CHICAGO
CHICAGO, MARCH 1.—To Merritt C. Horning, Chico, California, goes the distinction of being the first person in that state to receive a cash scholarship award under the college scholarship plan recently inaugurated by Montgomery Ward, it was announced here today by company officials.

Horning managed to earn a sufficient fund under the terms of the plan to begin his first year at Pacific Union College, Angwin, the school he has chosen. Under the provisions of the plan there are no limitations as to the age of the applicant and scholarships are awarded when sufficient credits have been earned by obtaining orders for Ward merchandise. Parents are enrolling infants and children of grade school age in order that funds will be available by the time they are ready to start college.

ANY MAY ENROLL IN PLAN
The plan, according to company officials, makes college, university, or specialized educational training possible for those who might not otherwise be able to secure it. Wards adopted the plan only after it had been approved by a number of the nation's leading educators. Although the plan was announced only last August it has been enthusiastically received in all parts of the country, thousands having already enrolled.

A.S.P.U.C. Will Have Friday Chapel Hour

Starting of new campaigns will be the chief business at the chapel period to be taken by the A. S. P. U. C. Other matters such as a discussion of the entertainment for the academic seniors on March 20, and the desirability of new school colors. Perhaps there will be time for a business session at which amendments to the constitution can be proposed and other points voted upon. Opportunity will be offered for discussion on all matters—everybody is invited to bring ideas.

105 Campaign Helpers Hold Sunday Banquet In College Dining Hall

ARCHBOLD LEADS OUT Reception, Speeches, Music Mark Entertainment March 3

The CHRONICLE banquet was a success! Given in honor of the students and faculty who were successful in their poll for the personal goal of four subscriptions during the recent campaign, the banquet last Sunday night, March 3, was voted the best entertainment of the year. From the half-hour reception to the concluding speech of the evening, spirits were high.

RECEPTION IN GIRLS' PARLOR

Following the reception sponsored by a trio of hosts and hostesses, the group was ushered from the Graf hall parlor to the college dining room. An orchestra under the direction of Herbert Work, saxophonist played until the guests were seated. Warren Wittenberg asked the blessing. The orchestra which included Cecil Vandenberg, and the Misses Edey and Edith Peterson provided dinner music.

COLLEGE COLORS DECORATE

Bender Archbold, master of ceremonies in his welcome assured all a happy time. A luncheon served American style followed. The college colors, green and gold, were carried out in detail throughout the affair. Green and gold candle holders held gold-colored candles while place cards and table streamers matched the theme. Waitresses were in white and green and gold headpieces. Miss Ann McKinsey was re-

A Cappella Choir Starts Annual Tour

First Complete Program To Be Given in Chico

The A Cappella choir will make a tour this week-end giving three concerts during the trip. Friday night it will sing at the Presbyterian church of Chico; Saturday night in the Tuesday Afternoon club house in Sacramento and Sunday night in the Lodi academy auditorium.

The choir will be accompanied by the ladies' trio composed of the Misses Allyce Bond, Vera Gudings and Rosalind Bond; a verse-speaking choir, made up of eleven members of the Speech department; and Herbert Work, who will play selections on the clarinet and saxophone.

The entire program this year aims to show Christ's sacrifice and the results of His death on the cross. "Let Us Cheer the Weary Traveler" runs as a theme throughout the program.

The program opens with a processional "Praise Ye the Father." The first group consists of "Let Us Cheer the Weary Traveler," "Sleepers, Wake, a Voice is Sounding!" and "Hail Gladdening Light." The ladies' trio adds variety to this part of the program.

The second group of numbers is "O Watchers of the Stars," "Prayer," a saxophone solo by Herbert Work, with choir accompaniment, and "Fierce Raged the Tempest." Here the verse-choir adds to the development of the theme of the program.

"Man of Sorrow," "Trees do Moan," and "Fairest Lord Jesus," compose the third group.

Following a solo by Herbert Work, the concluding group is presented. This group consists of "Sanctus," "The Way is Long and Wear," and "What a Saviour."

Veva Bolander Gives Idaho As Birthplace, Teacher As Ambition

A touch of the ancient and perhaps the mystic introduces Miss Veva Lois Bolander '35, vice-president of the Senior class, for she gives as her birthplace, Caribel, a little north-Idaho village now extinct. The great event took place on the stormy night of Feb. 1, 1914.

Of American and Swedish parentage she was called, during her childhood, "little red-headed half-Swede." When asked on interview if she were a Yankee, she replied, "No, I'm a Gemstater" (Idahoan).

Majoring in English with a minor in Spanish, she plans to teach after she receives her A. B. next May. Though she claims she can't sing a note straight, Veva loves music. Botany of Flowering Plants, a course she is taking at present, is her most captivating study, she testified.

With circumstance shifting her hither and yon the heroine attended four schools in three states during her high school life. Idaho, Washington and the Mountain View and Glendale academies shared this lively personality. She graduated from the Glendale Union academy in 1931 as secretary and valedictorian of her class, has attended P. U. C. the past four years, has served as editor of the CHRONICLE and claims a twin-cousin on the Campus.

Elder G. A. Roberts Takes Church Hour

"Success has come to us in the progress of our denomination, but we need more whole-hearted Christianity," urged Elder G. A. Roberts, president of the Southern California conference, at the 11 o'clock service, Sabbath.

To illustrate his theme of entire consecration, the speaker told the story of a young medical missionary in Burma who became discouraged because of low funds for supplies. He received a letter offering him a high salary to connect with a company as physician. Through his great love for the souls of those for whom he worked, he made the right decision and continued in medical ministry.

Elder Roberts stressed the interest of God in each individual when he said, "God records all the good that is done. He is concerned about the ordinary experiences of our every-day life, and will reward those who are faithful to Him, and who, through patience and hope find comfort in the Scriptures."

Missionary Volunteer Band Accomplishes

By WARREN WIT

A quiet, reverent, business-like atmosphere prevailed. One, light complexioned, neatly dressed, serious-minded-looking young man was walking up and down between the tables, apparently supervising the work.

The group consisted of about fifteen young men and women of the P. U. C. Correspondence band. It was 9:35 Sabbath morning in the library, and although it was very evident that this was anything but a pleasure gathering, everyone seemed to be having a good time.

What did he say? "Let us stop our work for a minute that we might pray." It was Scott Tandy, the band leader, who spoke. As we bowed our heads I wished that every CHRONICLE reader might have heard that prayer. It was earnest; it was appealing; it was intensely
